Comments :I was quite an impressionable character when in 1987 R Venkataraman assumed the office of President of India. Never at that time did we realise the importance of this august office in the conduct of national polity and how RV conducted himself with dignity, constitutional propriety and political decorum - attributes which we miss in today\'s political situation. I greatly admire RV and believe he was the last of the scholarly and erudite Presidents of India.

Comments :I have attended a RV Centenary Lecture : Non Violence & Spiritual Values in Secular India, Addressed by HH The Dalai lama at Teen Murti today(April2,2011). It was unique moment in 21 years of my human life..... Awesome!!! We the yougsters of this country must be remain in touch with such legendary personality of the century..... I have learned a lot in these almost three hours of grave discussion. - Thank you so much. Ganesh pol, Student of Political Science from Delhi University.

Comments :I served as MLA Tenkasi for a term because of his blessings. He was always thinking of the well beings of the society. He once told me that we need ITIs and not polytechics, and when an ITI failed in Tenkasi with a friend I took it over and running it now successfully on a no gain no loss basis.

My father Sri. N. Krishnaswamy born in august 1909 studied in the VI form (SSLC) in 1930. After that he studied the intermediate class (then called as FA if I am correct) at the Pachaiappa's college then situated in Madras g.t.. It must be during the academic years 1930-31 to 1931-32. He used to show his grand daughters (my daughters) a photo which he had taken during the above period, and used to be elated to tell them that the honbl. r.v. was a class mate and close friend of his. He had an ambition to meet Mr. RV which never materialised as we had no means to approach the then president of India. My father died in 1995 and the enclosed photograph (copied with our digital camera) was retrieved from my sister's house where she has taken the photo along with other items she has taken from my father. if you could identify the former president in the photograph and wish to use the attached copy you may do so at your will.

Dear Sirs,

I saw in the paper today morning a news item with photograph of Sri. R. Venkataraman. It was about the unveiling of the portrait.

As a portrait artist, I was pained and bit shocked too, to see that a photographed portrait was used for the function.

I should have appreciated very much if a painted portrait was used for such occasions, for two reasons.

1. Personages like Sri. R. Venkataraman deserves a painted portrait, not mere photograph.

Because, a painted portrait lasts longer and it is life-like. When Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, former President completed his term I was commissioned to do a portrait for Raj Bhavan.

2. I think, artists with talent should be well utilised for painting such important portraits. That will be fine for the artist and the subject.

If you agree with me, please give a thought to my view on future occasions.

Thank you,
